Graduate Student Newsletter - March 7, 2024

Dear graduate students,

In this newsletter, we are excited to announce that the Graduate Research Forum will return this spring to the Ford Alumni Center. This Forum will feature panel presentations, a poster session, and interdisciplinary networking. We encourage all graduate students to consider participating to showcase your research and learn from your peers.

Please also consider nominating your excellent mentors, coordinators, and directors for the Graduate Education Excellence Award. New award this year for graduate students who are excellent mentors!

Sincerely,
Division of Graduate Studies

Events

Graduate Research Forum 2024

Friday, May 10 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at Ford Alumni Center
Proposal submissions due Wednesday, April 17

The Graduate Research Forum is back and you are invited to the yearly showcase of research from graduate students working across more than 35 disciplines. Join us for this one-day conference to celebrate the work, scholarship and creative expression of UO graduate students through a poster session, panel presentations, and interdisciplinary networking.

All graduate students are invited to participate and maybe win a cash prize! Whether you are at the beginning of your program, looking beyond graduation, or new to presenting, now is your chance to get your message out, practice your pitch to future employers or investors, and get ready for your conference this summer. Submit a proposal to present a poster or participate in a panel presentation!
