Does your document include co-authored and/or previously published material? Y N

If yes, you must include the following acknowledgments in your thesis:

1. The Abstract. Your abstract must have this concluding one-sentence paragraph beginning with an indented line: This thesis includes previously published [unpublished] [coauthored] material.
2. The first chapter. This chapter usually is an overview of the ETD and must specify which parts of the dissertation have been published with only your name and/or have been or will be published with co-authors, and co-authors must be acknowledged by name.
3. The beginning of each chapter that includes previously published and/or coauthored material. See Appendix D of the Style Manual for examples.
